

A
FREE GIFT!
EVERY WEEK!

Yogi

HANNA-BARBERA'S

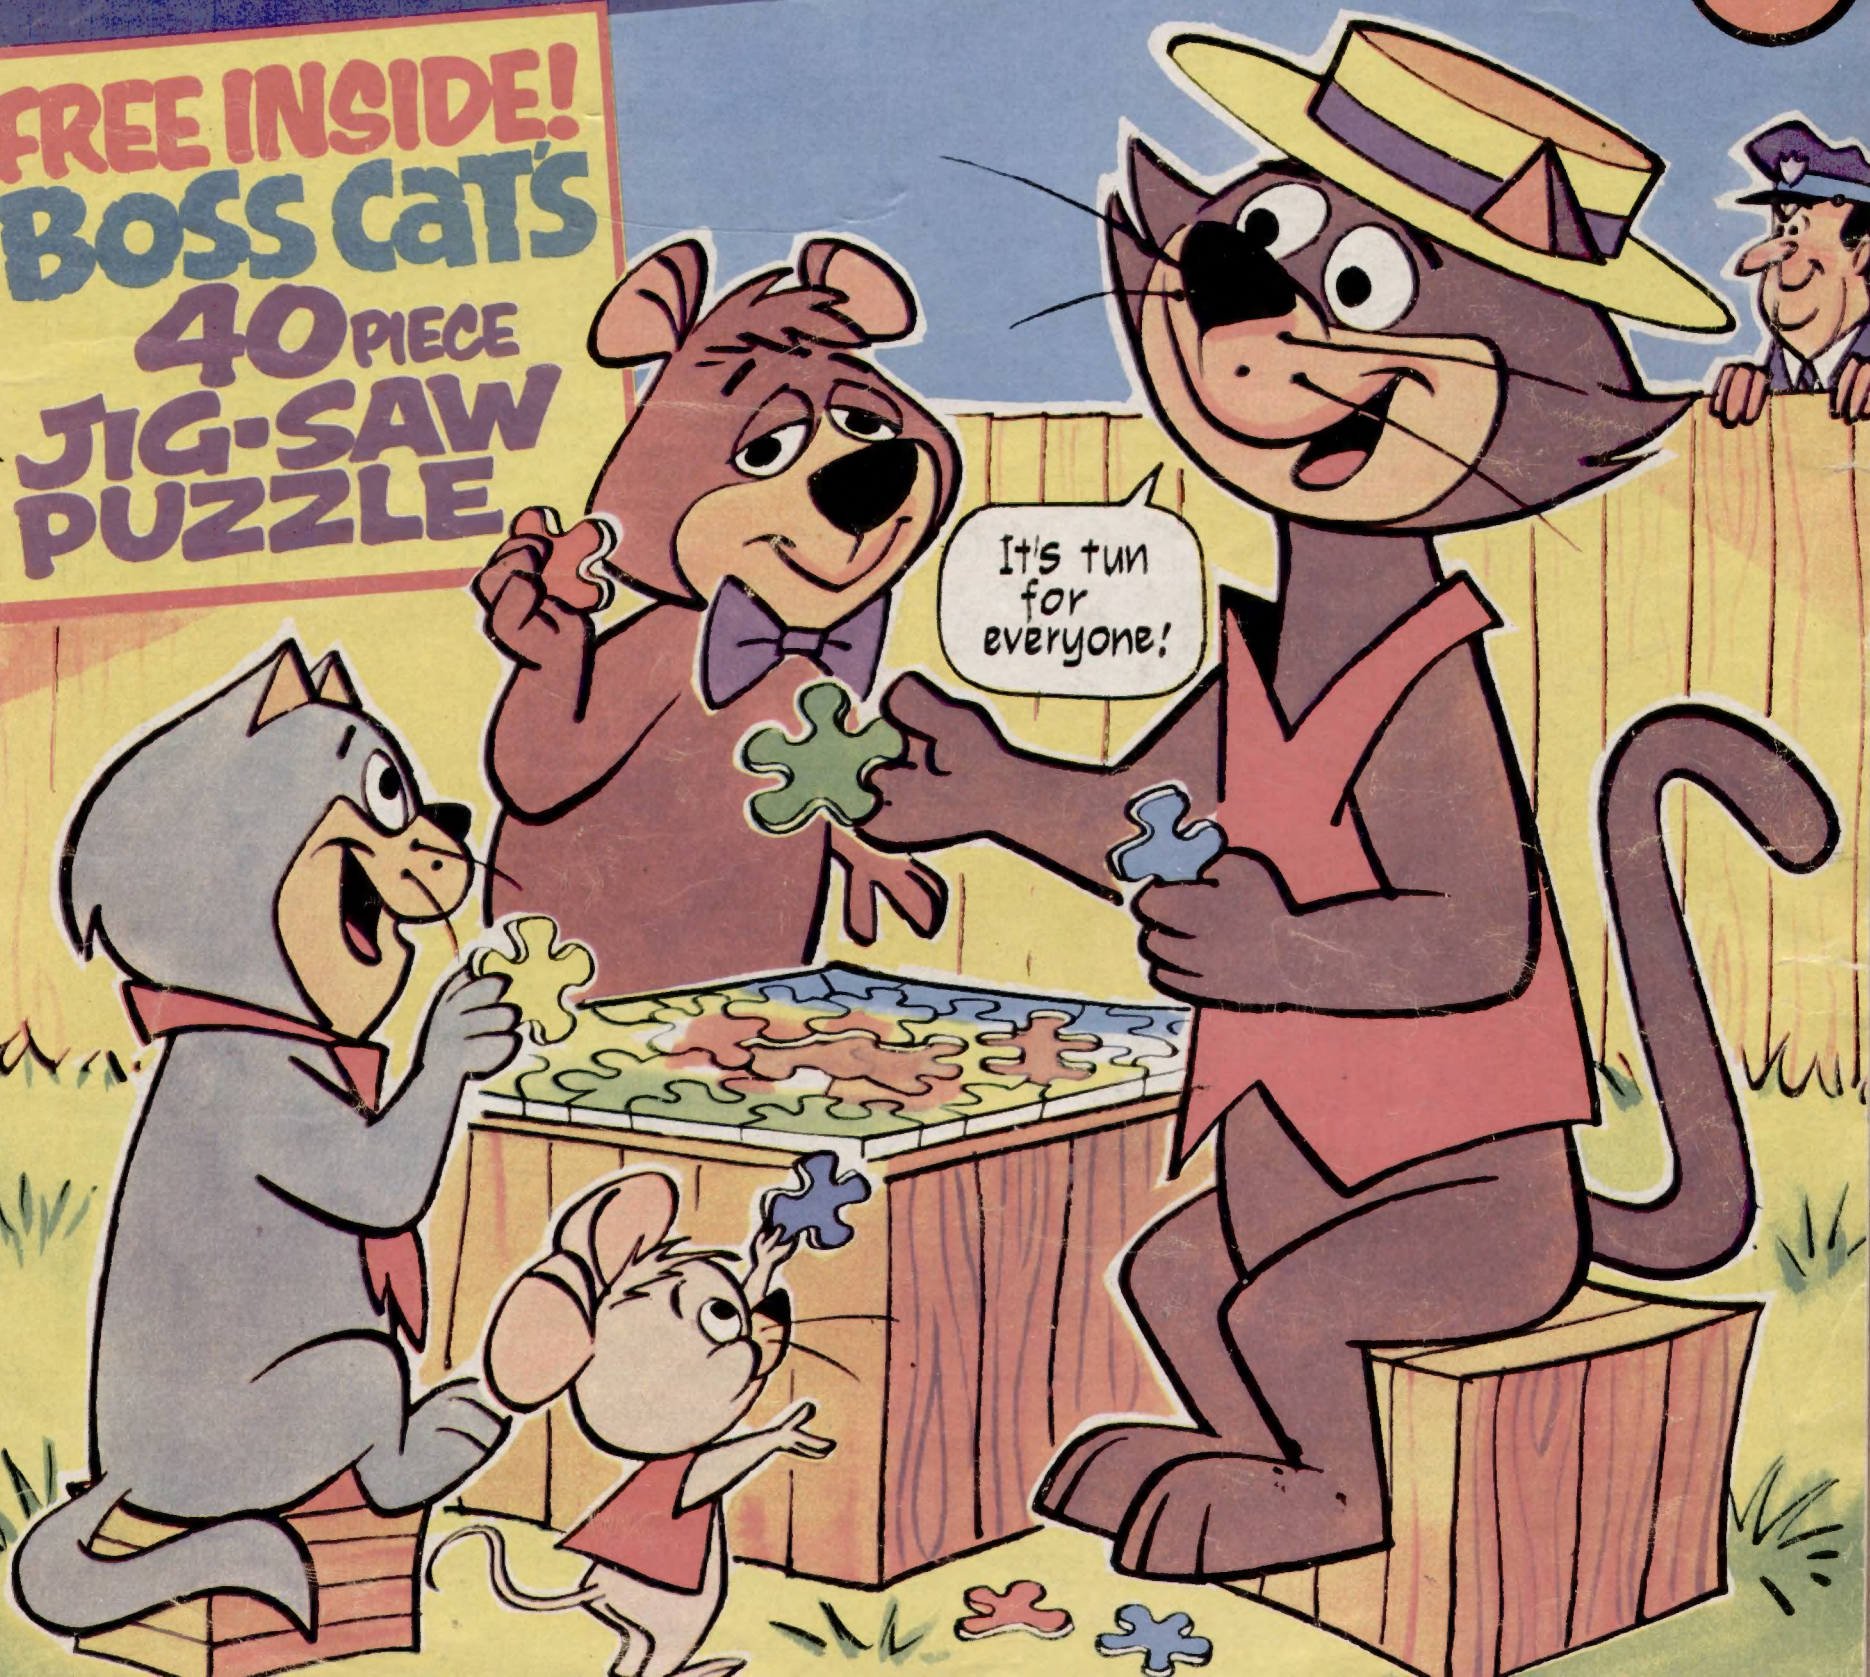

AND HIS TOY

Nº 14

EVERY FRIDAY

10p

FREE INSIDE!
BOSS CAT'S
40 PIECE
JIG-SAW
PUZZLE

The Tales of YOGI BEAR

RAINBOW'S END

1. It had been raining hard at Jellystone Park. Everything was wet and the picnic ground was full of puddles. Nobody was there when Yogi and Boo Boo appeared on the scene. Not even Ranger Smith to chase them away! They were at a loss for something to do when suddenly the sun shone through.

2. As the sun came out, a big rainbow appeared. It arced and dipped down beyond the trees. It gave Yogi a bright idea. He had heard that where the rainbow ends was a crock of gold. Even if there wasn't, finding the end of the rainbow would give him and Boo Boo something to do.

3. It was fun following the rainbow. Through the trees they ran. Boo Boo didn't think it so much fun when Yogi bumped into a tree which shook so much that Boo Boo was soaked with rain. "Why don't you look where you're going?" spluttered Boo Boo.

4. Through the trees they ran until they came to the lake. There they saw that the rainbow ended right in the middle of Barbecue Island. Having gone so far, Yogi decided to go on. Anyway, it was fun chasing the rainbow. Luckily, bobbing along by the shore was an empty rowing boat.

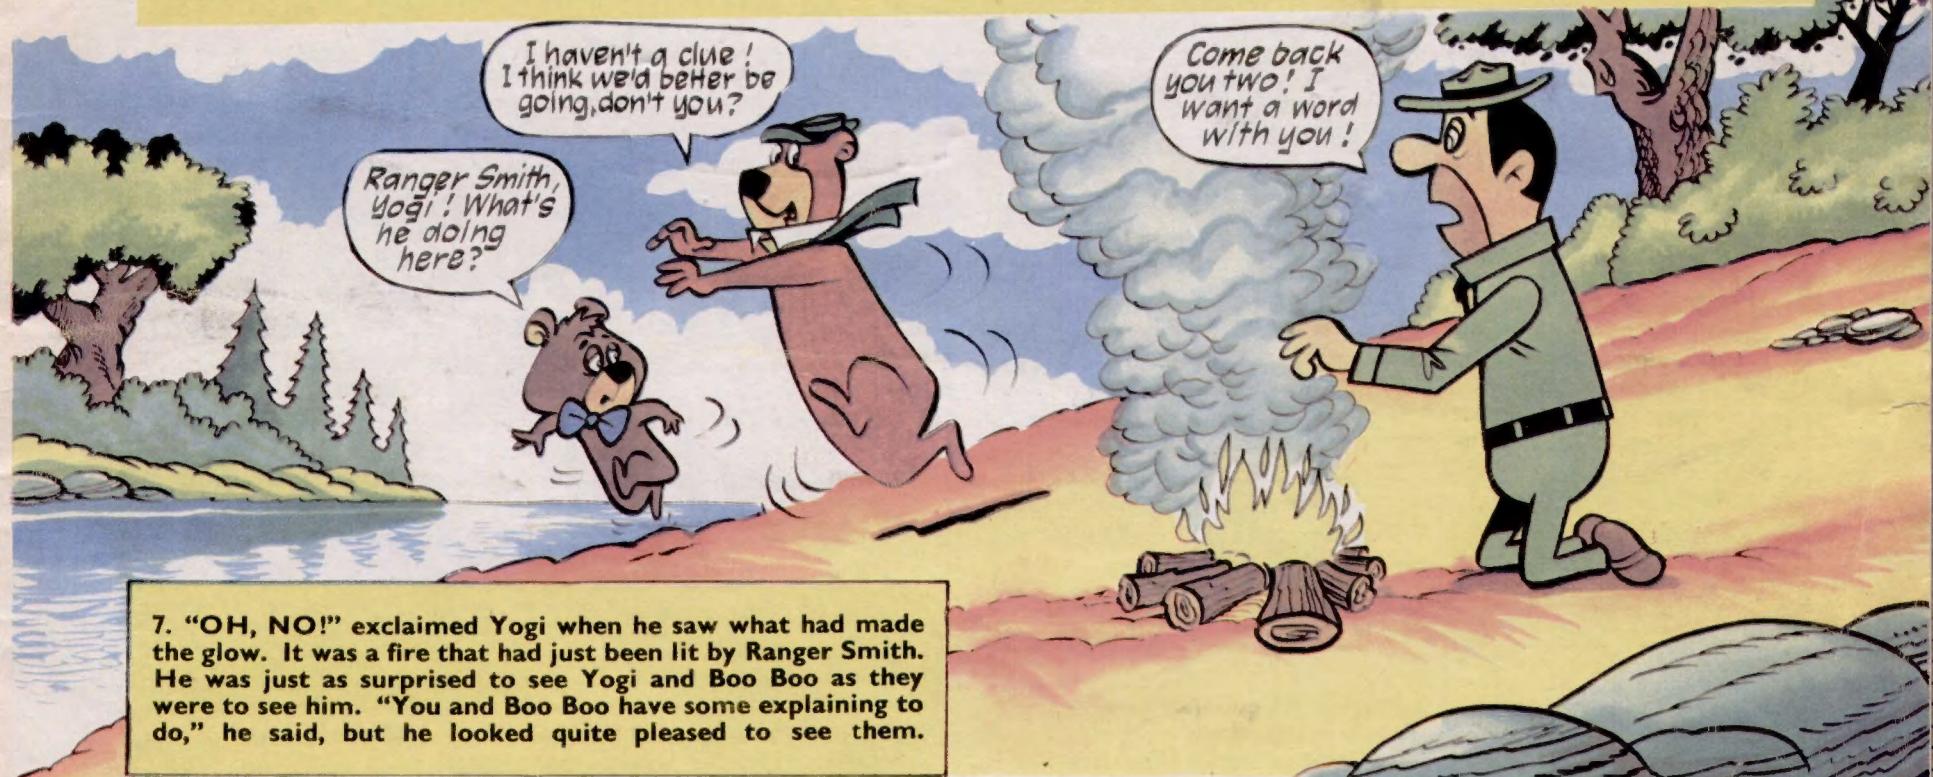

5. The rules of Jellystone Park state that bears are not allowed on the lake in boats. Ranger Smith usually saw that the rules were obeyed but he wasn't about. Yogi rowed while Boo Boo kept his eye on the rainbow. The trouble was that as they drew near the island, the rainbow faded.

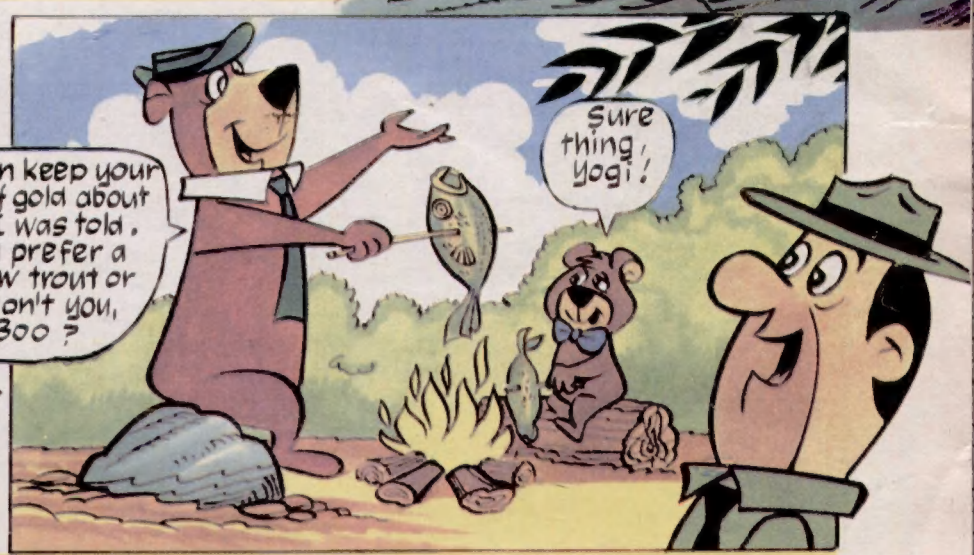

6. By the time they landed on the beach, the rainbow had faded right away. "All this way for nothing," Yogi sighed, and looked to where the rainbow might have been. As he looked, he saw something glowing. Could it be the crock of gold at the rainbow's end as he had been told?

7. "OH, NO!" exclaimed Yogi when he saw what had made the glow. It was a fire that had just been lit by Ranger Smith. He was just as surprised to see Yogi and Boo Boo as they were to see him. "You and Boo Boo have some explaining to do," he said, but he looked quite pleased to see them.

8. Yogi explained that they'd tried to find the end of the rainbow and had borrowed a boat to do so. Ranger Smith laughed and said he was glad they had or he'd have been stranded on Barbecue Island. He had been fishing and come ashore when it rained and his boat had drifted away.

9. Yogi was pleased that he'd followed the rainbow, even though there was no crock of gold. Boo Boo was pleased, too, for both were glad they had been able to help Ranger Smith. And there was a nice surprise for them, too. Ranger Smith had caught a rainbow trout and they all had a tasty meal.

EXCITING TIMES WITH QUICK DRAW MCGRAW

THE MAIL ROBBERS

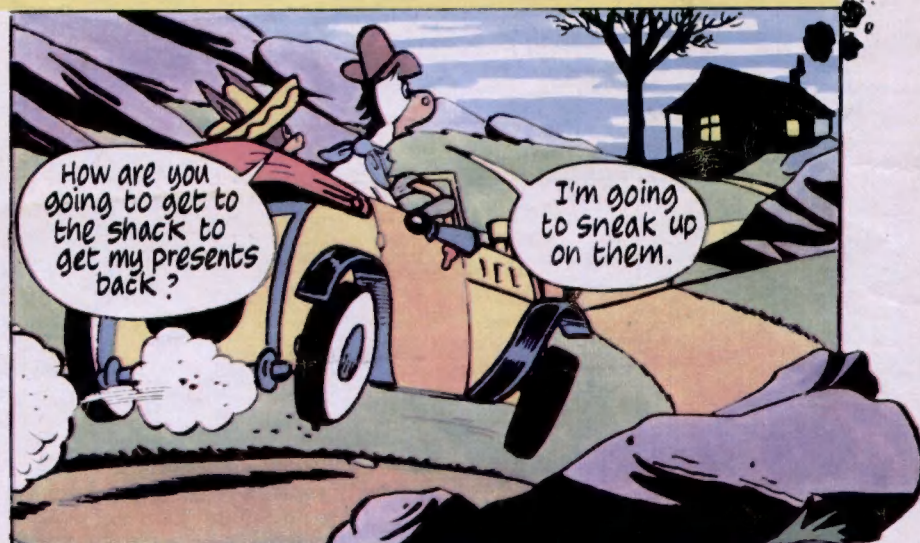

1. It was Baba Looney's birthday, but he was unhappy because he had not received a single birthday card. Quick Draw was puzzled. He knew he had posted a card to Baba Looney.

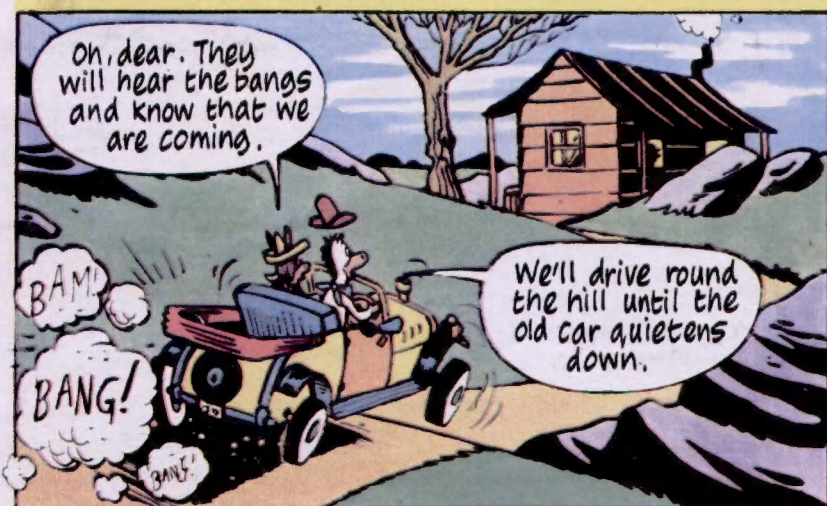

2. Quick Draw tried to cheer his friend. He said that perhaps he'd been sent so many cards the mailman was still busy sorting them out. The truth was that the mailman had no mail at all, because some bandits had robbed the mail coach back along the trail.

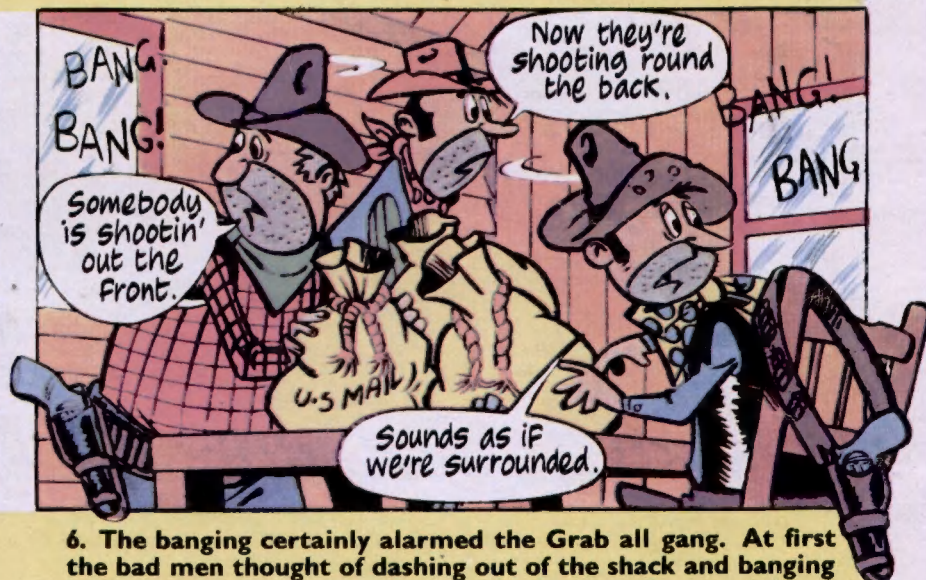

3. The rough and tough Graball gang were the robbers. They were not the sort to hand things back, even if asked politely. Quick Draw wasn't going to let them get away with it, especially on Baba Looney's birthday.

4. Quick Draw hopped into his old car and drove towards the shack in the hills where the Graball gang hung out. Baba Looney went too, although he didn't want to. If Quick Draw wasn't quick on the draw, he might have an unhappy birthday!

5. As they neared the shack where the gang hung out, they suddenly heard a loud banging. Poor Baba went white with fright. He thought the Graball gang were shooting their shooters at them. It was only the old car backfiring. BANG, bangity-bang, it went. It sounded most alarming.

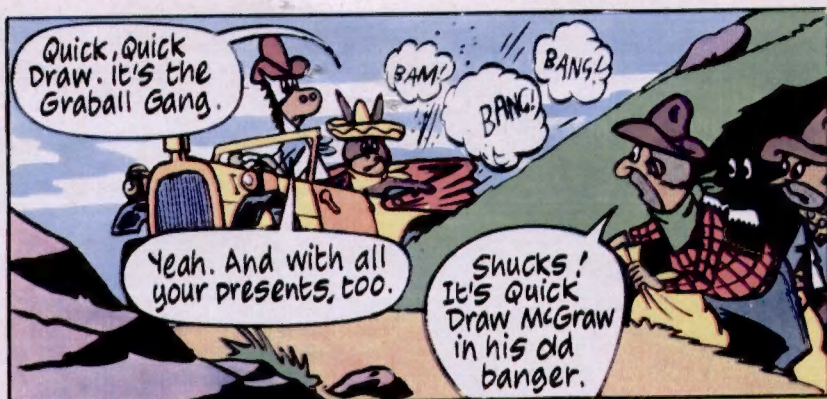

6. The banging certainly alarmed the Grab all gang. At first the bad men thought of dashing out of the shack and banging back, but the banging seemed to be going on all around them. They thought they were surrounded. Yes, the BANG, bangity-bang of Quick Draw's old car had them worried.

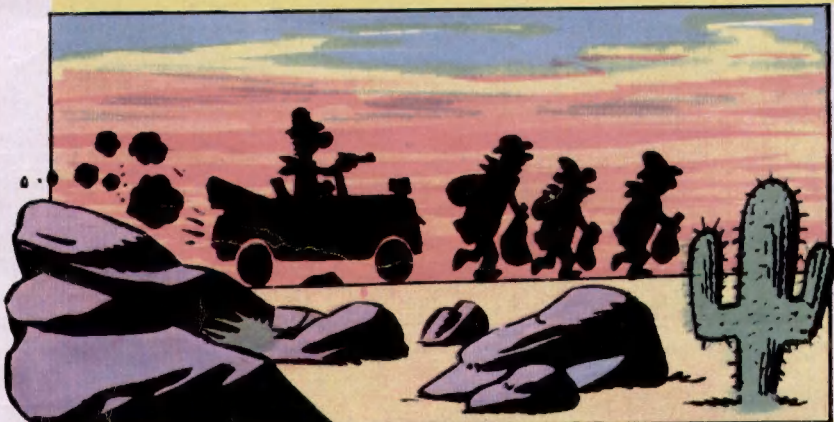

7. The Graball gang decided to quit rather than face what it thought was an army. The crafty rascals had dug a tunnel from the shack through the hill and under the trail so they could pop up on the other side of it.

8. While the baddies were in their tunnel, Quick Draw was still driving around trying to quieten his old car. Just as the gang popped out of the hole on the side of the road, Quick Draw came popping and banging round the corner.

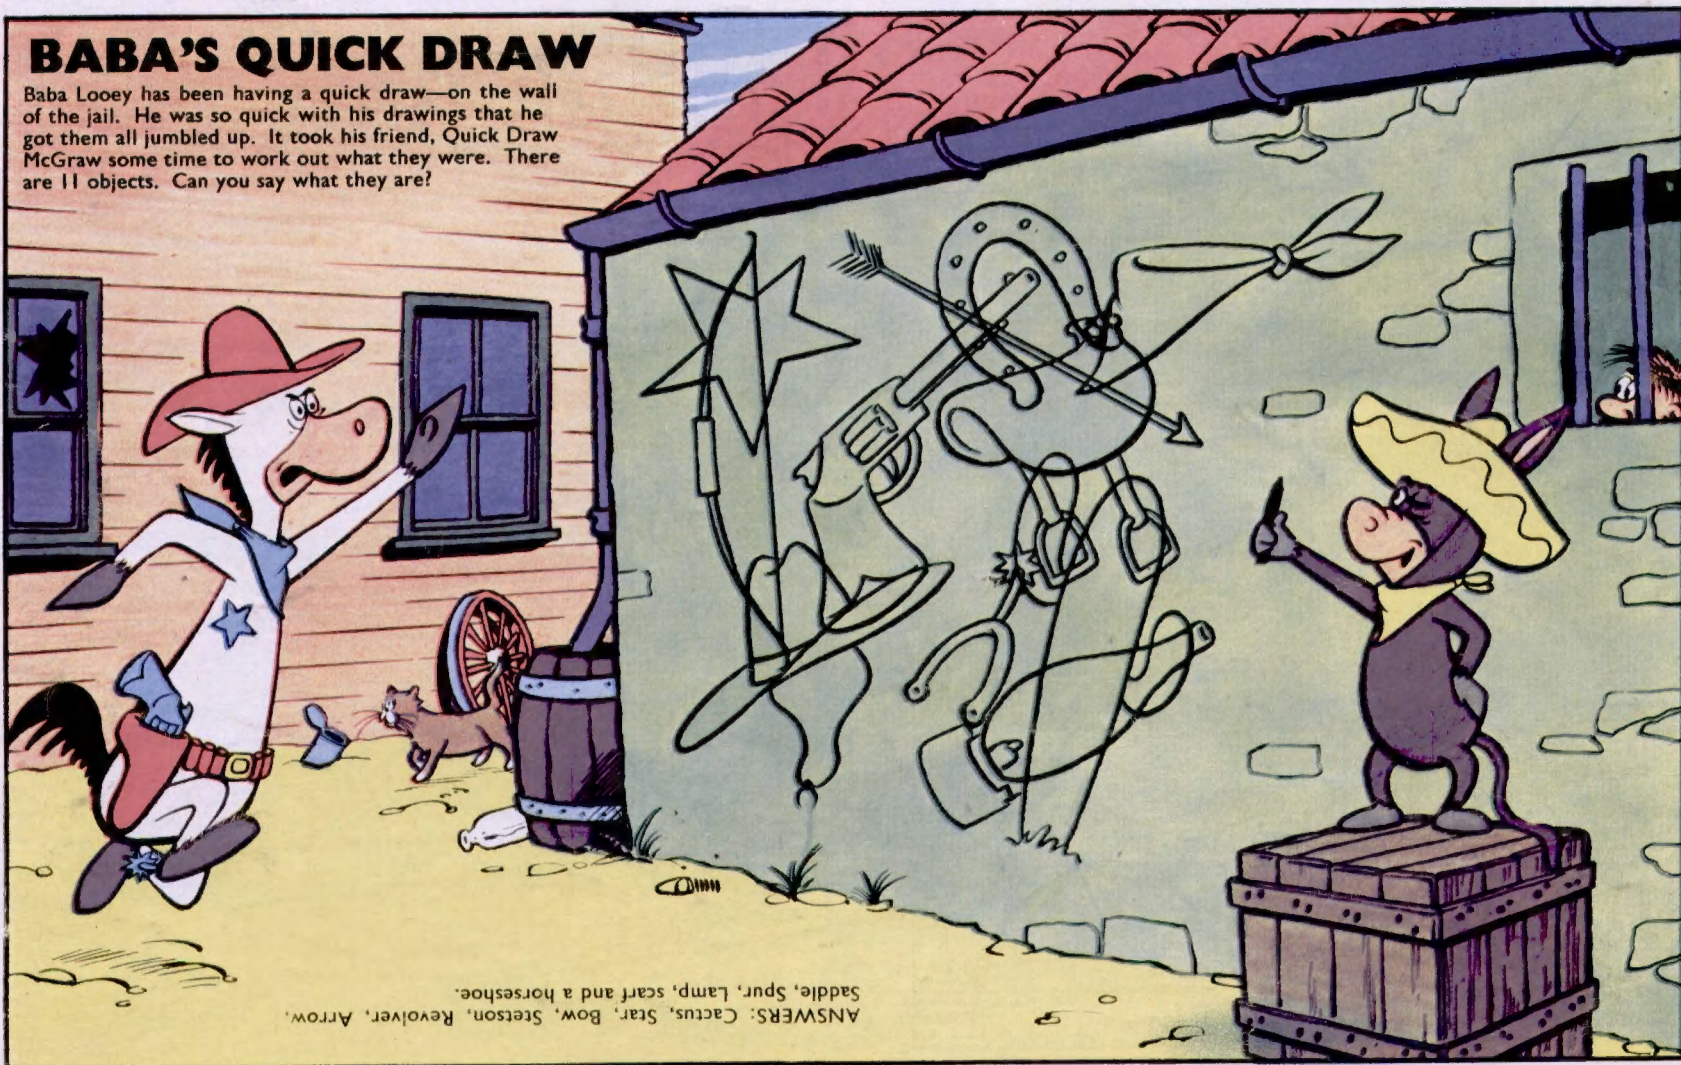

9. Quick Draw was quick on the draw. "Drop your guns and pick up those sacks," he said to the gang. "You'd better do as he says," said Baba Looey. "Quick Draw has the drop on you." The baddies did as they were bid, and Quick Draw ran them back to town and locked them up in the jail.

10. Thanks to Quick Draw and his old banger, everybody in town got their mail that day. Baba Looey got his cards and his presents, too. Later, they had a tea party and, because of all the trouble they had caused to Baba Looey, Quick Draw made the gang sing "Happy Birthday" to him.

BABA'S QUICK DRAW

Baba Looey has been having a quick draw—on the wall of the jail. He was so quick with his drawings that he got them all jumbled up. It took his friend, Quick Draw McGraw some time to work out what they were. There are 11 objects. Can you say what they are?

ANSWERS: Cactus, Star, Spur, Lamp, Scarf, Horseshoe, Bow, Stetson, Revolver, Arrow.

ADVENTURES OF

FISHY BUSINESS

MAGILLA GORILLA

YOGI SAYS...

LET'S MAKE SOME SHADOW PICTURES

With a bright torch, a dark room and a light tone wall or white sheet, you can make your own animal zoo. Try it tonight...

PIG

GOOSE

GOAT

RABBIT

BUTTERFLY

DOG

WHICH LEAVES?

On the right you will see four different types of leaves. Can you name the trees that they come from? You will find the answers printed upside down in the corner.

ANSWERS
A Horse Chestnut
B Holly
C Pine
D Oak

FREE NEXT WEEK in Yogi SUPER IRON-ON TRANSFER OF Boss Cat

Here's another bright and gay super iron-on transfer, to be given FREE next week in YOGI and his Toy. This time the transfer is of your great chum, Boss Cat. Get a grown-up to iron your Boss Cat transfer on your shirt or blouse and be the envy of your friends. This great gift is FREE next week only in YOGI and his Toy. So . . .

BE SURE TO ORDER YOUR COPY NOW!

YOUR Boss Cat JIG-SAW PUZZLE

THIS is what your Boss Cat Jig-Saw puzzle should look like when you have put all the pieces together. Keep this page as a reference so that you can enjoy making up your puzzle again and again.

There will be other free Jig-Saw puzzles given away with YOGI and His Toy from time to time.

To make sure that you do not miss any it is a good idea to place a regular order with your newsagent.

BOSS Cat

THE POGO JUMP

Colouring Time

In this picture are Little Boy Blue, Goldielocks and Red Riding Hood. You can finish the picture with your paints or crayon by colouring Red Riding Hood and Little Boy Blue, Goldielocks' hair and the oranges and lemons in the girls' baskets.

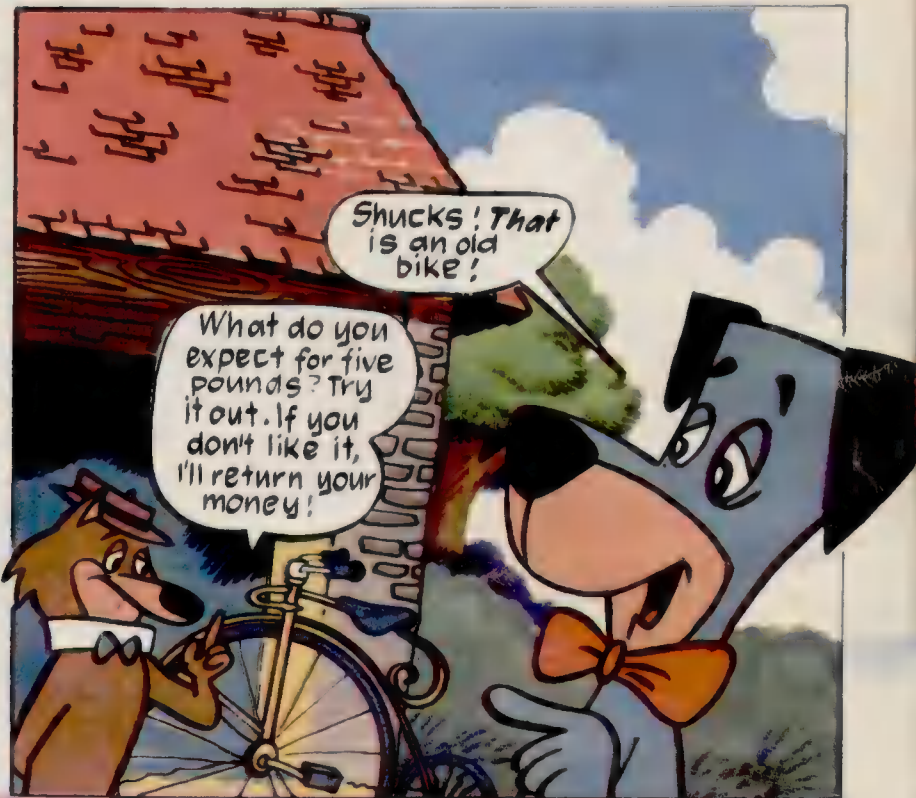

THE PENNY-FARTHING BIKE

The HAPPY DAYS OF HUCKLEBERRY HOUND

1. Hokey Wolf met Huck one day and told him that he was getting too much tubby round the tummy. He advised Huck to take some exercise and that the best way to do it was to buy a bicycle. "There's nothing like cycling for losing a few pounds," artful Hokey said. "And if you want to buy an old bike, I've got one in my shed."

2. Artful Hokey meant to relieve Huck of pounds in money and not in weight. "Shucks!" Huck said when Hokey wheeled the old bike out of the shed. "That's an old Penny-farthing bike, isn't it?" Crafty Hokey replied: "They don't make bicycles like that these days. Seeing as I know you, I'll sell it to you for five pounds."

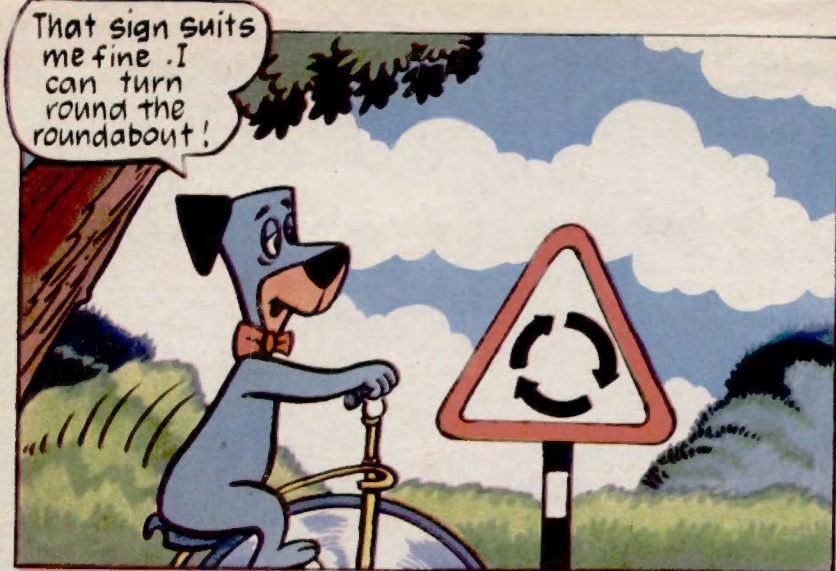

3. Huck paid his five pounds and mounted the old machine with the aid of a lamp-post. "Away you go," chuckled Hokey, giving Huck a push. "Shucks!" gasped Huck. "I'm getting giddy up here!" As Hokey hurried off to spend the money, he called back to Huck "Shut your eyes and then you won't see how far you are off the ground!"

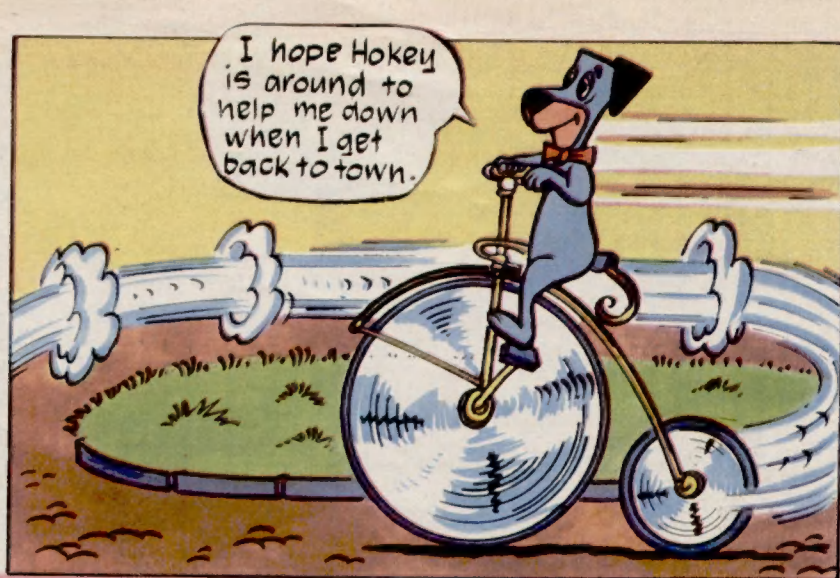

4. Although he kept nearly losing his balance, Huck rode along doing his best to obey the Highway Code. He didn't have to stop, which was just as well because he didn't know how to. He didn't know how to turn round either, so he kept going until he found himself in the country. Huck certainly livened the country up on his mad ride.

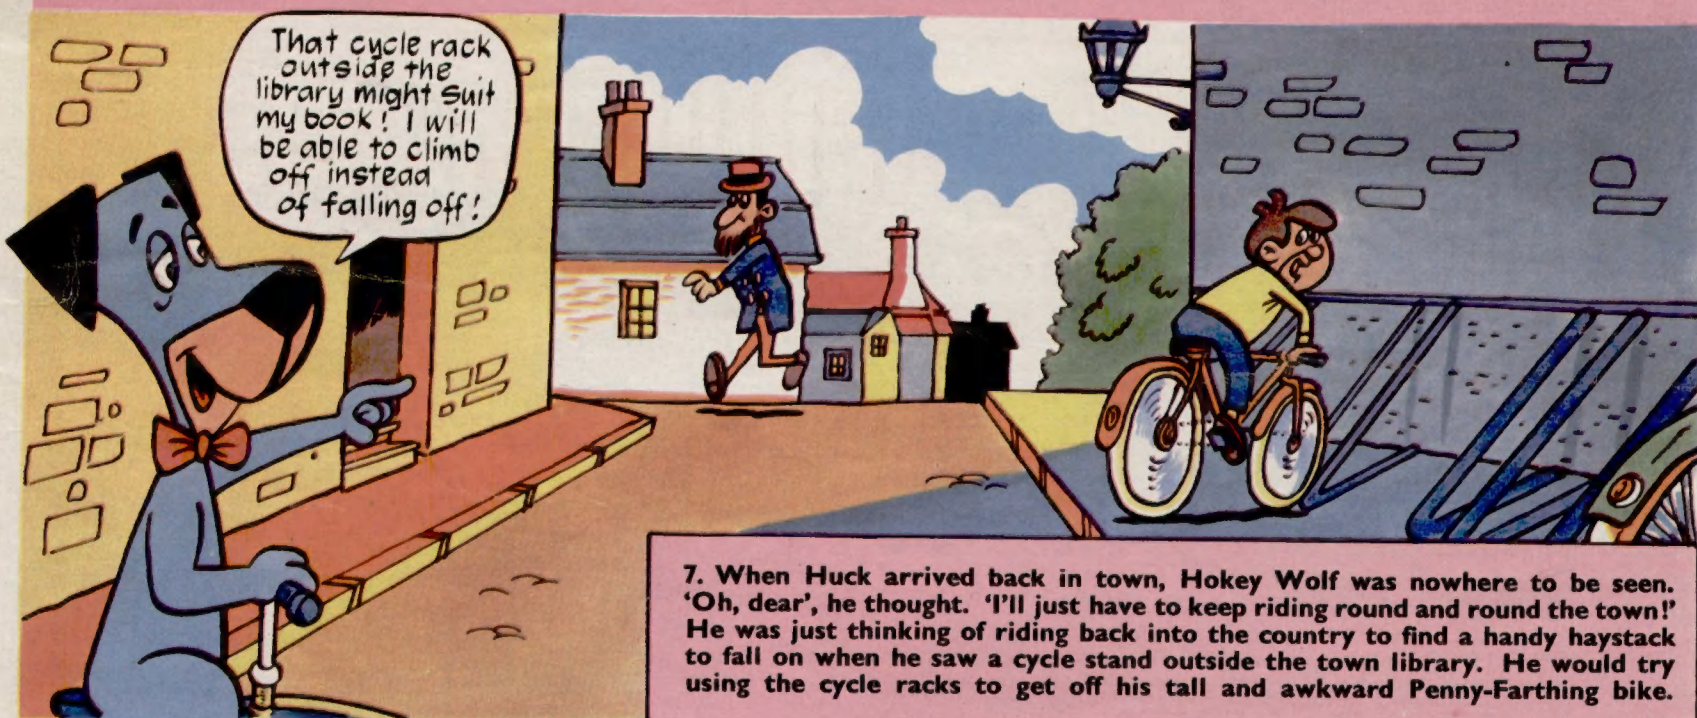

5. Now Huck wasn't so much bothered about stopping and getting off as he was about staying on and keeping going. If he got off now, he would have to walk all that way back home. Then he saw a sign that cheered him up. Do you know what that sign means? That's right, there's a round-a-bout ahead. He would be able to turn round there!

6. Huck rode up to the round-a-bout and looked to his right, as the Highway Code says you should do. There was nothing coming so he rode on right round it and headed back home the way he had come. When he saw the farm ahead, he rang his bell to warn the farmer to take in his chickens. They shouldn't have been there, anyway.

7. When Huck arrived back in town, Hokey Wolf was nowhere to be seen. 'Oh, dear', he thought. 'I'll just have to keep riding round and round the town!' He was just thinking of riding back into the country to find a handy haystack to fall on when he saw a cycle stand outside the town library. He would try using the cycle racks to get off his tall and awkward Penny-Farthing bike.

8. Although it wasn't the right thing to do, Huck rode his bike into the rack and climbed down. He had hardly reached the ground when a jolly man came up to him and wanted to buy the bike. Huck warned the man that it was not a good bike to ride. "I don't want to ride it," the man replied "I want it for my museum. I'll pay ten pounds for it!"

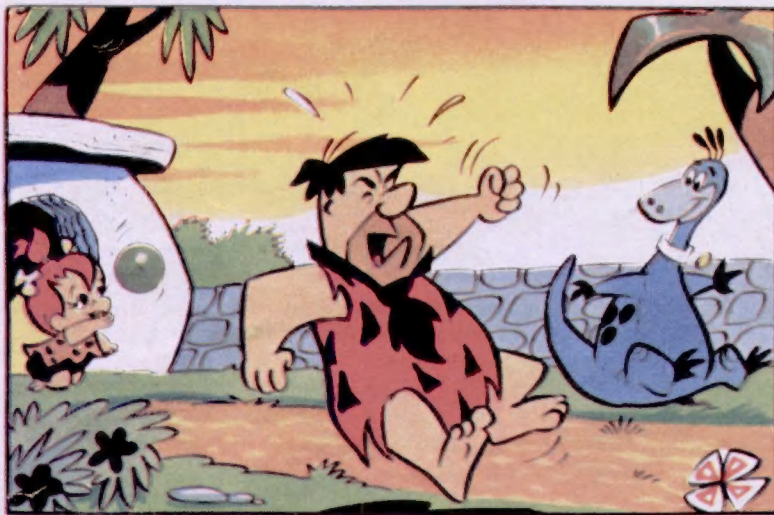

9. Huck didn't want a penny for his old cycle, but the man insisted. As he didn't want to offend the man, Huck took the money. When Huck saw Hokey later, he told him that for all the pounds in weight he'd lost, he had made it up with pounds in money. Hokey was cross, but it served him right for the trick he had played on our friend, Huck.

FUN with The FLINTSTONES

GUARD PETS

1. Fred Flintstone would rather watch the grass grow than mow it. But one day he did get the mower out to do the mowing, and went to get some oil. When he came back, the mower was missing. "SOMEBODY'S STOLEN IT!" he roared.

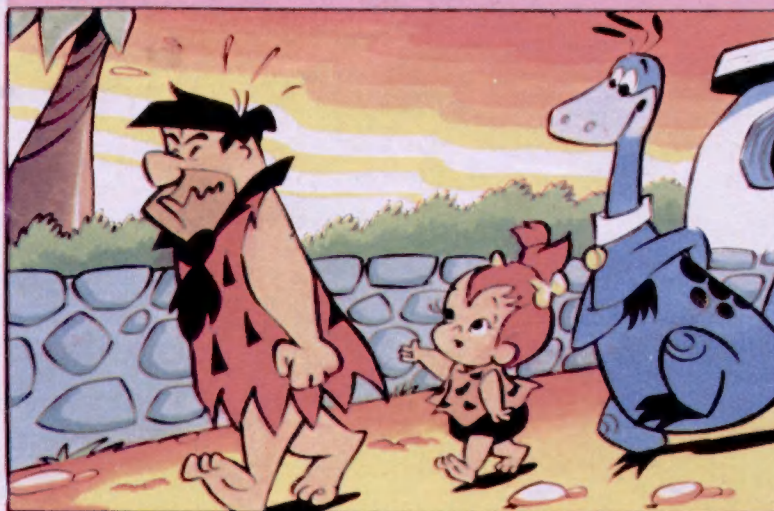

2. "How can I cut the grass now?" Fred yelled. "You can use the shears, dear," called Wilma, trying to be helpful. "I don't think the mower has been stolen," said Pebbles. "Mr. Rubble has borrowed it by sound of it." Fred was furious!

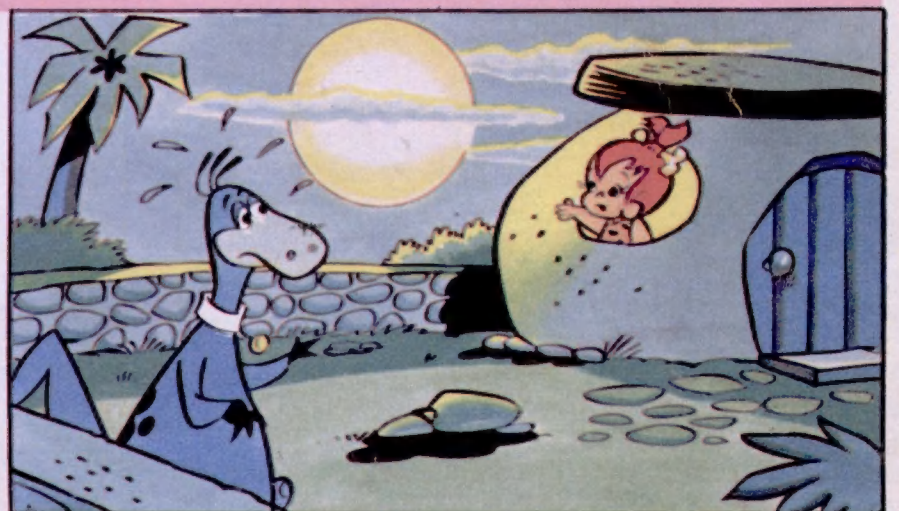

3. The sound of Fred's mower being used could be heard coming from the garden of Barney Rubble, his next door neighbour. Barney was always borrowing things without asking so Fred stormed over to Barney's place to get his mower back. But Baby Puss, Barney's pet, barred the way.

4. There was such a snarling and growling that Barney came over. "You want to keep that pet in check," snapped Fred. "But that's what pets are for," said Barney, "To guard your property!"

5. Fred was so furious he clean forgot to ask for his mower back. On his way home he kept mumbling about Dino, Pebbles' pet dinosaur, being useless and letting people take things.

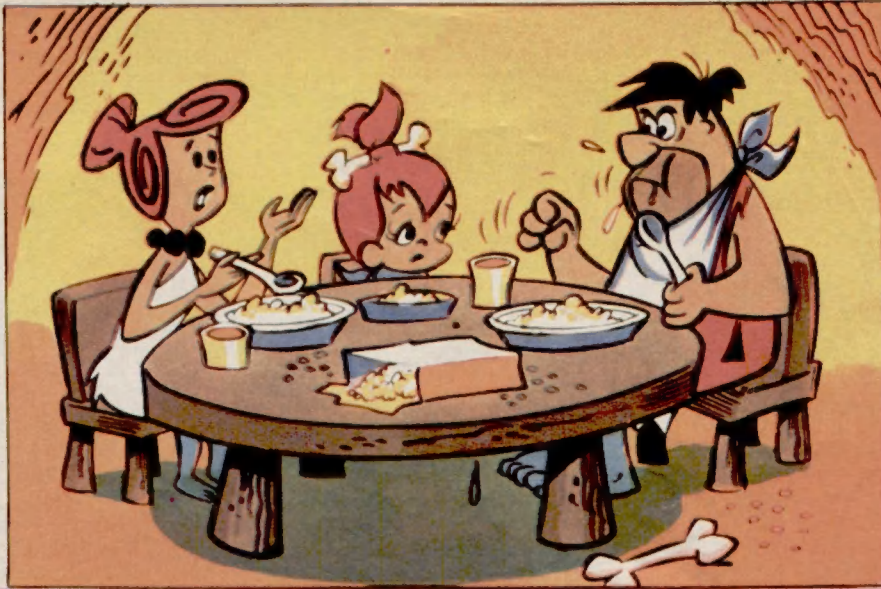

6. Dino usually sleeps indoors. "Not any more," said Fred. "He stays in the garden and guards the house from now on." Pebbles sadly bid her pet 'goodnight'. "Poor Dino," she sighed. "You could keep people out if you wanted to." Dino nodded his head.

7. When Fred got up next morning he felt quite happy. He had forgotten about the fuss he had made the day before. But soon Fred was furious again. When he went to the door for his milk and paper, they were not there!

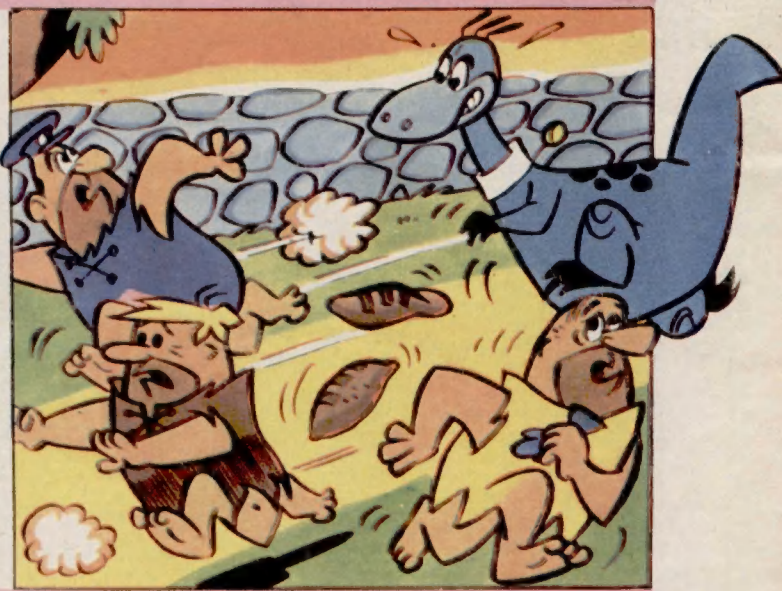

8. Now Fred likes lots of milk with his morning cereals and he likes to read the morning paper while munching them. As he crunched his cereals without milk he muttered and spluttered. "At least, he's not mad at Dino, for a change," said Pebbles.

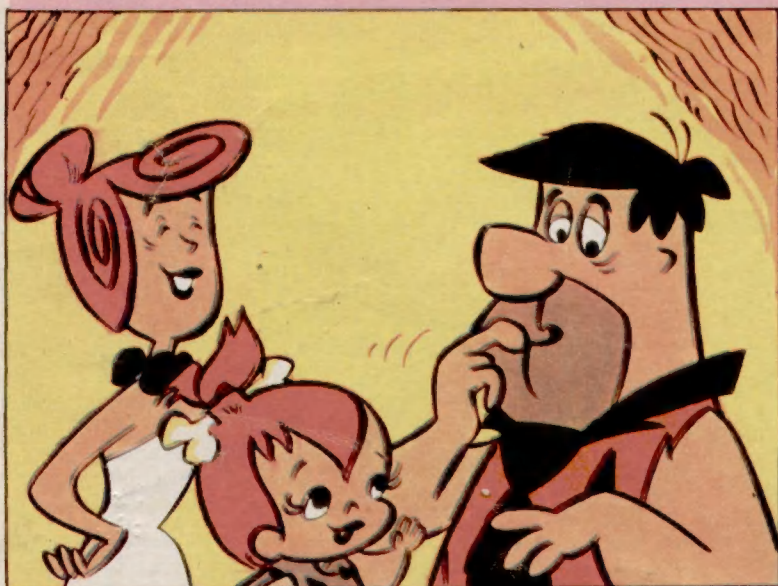

9. "Strange that we should get no milk or paper the same morning," thought Pebbles. Just then Barney strolled through the gate.

10. Barney always called to get a lift to work in Fred's car. Suddenly, a look of fear came on his face. He ran off, closely followed by a fierce Dino.

11. Up the road fled Barney with Dino chasing him. The postman decided to flee, too. So did the baker. What was wrong with Dino? This is not at all like him!

12. "Dino is showing Daddy that he is just as good as Baby Puss at keeping people out," Pebbles told her Mummy. "So that's why we have no milk or morning paper!" said Wilma. "And it seems we have no bread or mail either!"

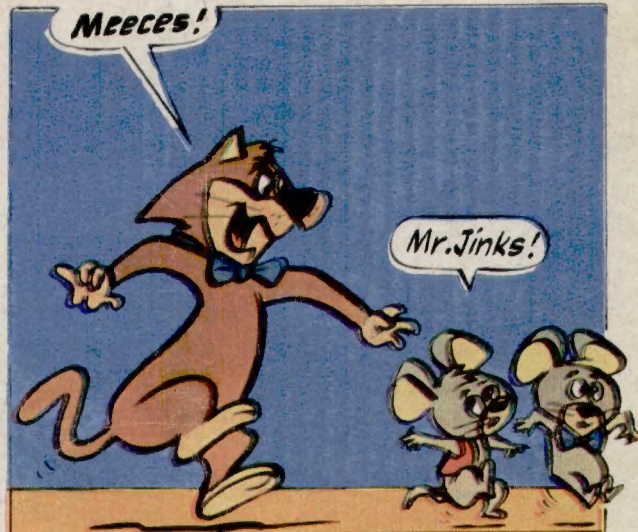

13. Was it Barney who had caused the trouble or was it Fred? If Fred has been using his mower, Barney could not have taken it. Anyway, it was decided to let Dino sleep indoors again. Then Fred would be sure of getting his milk and papers every morning.

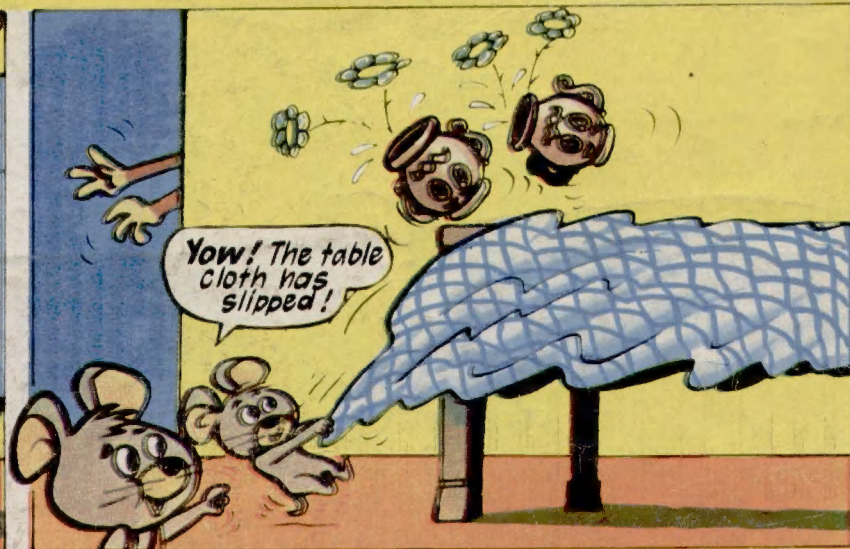

1. Pixie and Dixie, the merry little mice, were strolling around the house one day wondering what they could do. "I hope we don't run into Mr. Jinks, Pixie," said Dixie. Mr. Jinks is the name of the big, bad cat who also lives in the house. He is always trying to catch the little chums.

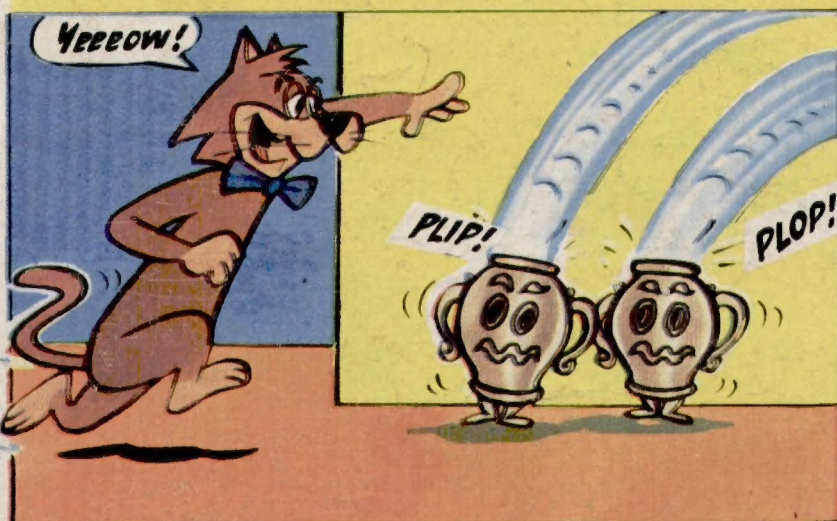

2. "Aha!" came a loud voice. "I spy meeces!" And that is Mr. Jinks, of course. He always calls mice 'meeces' because, besides being a big, bad cat, he is also rather silly and he always likes to make that joke. "Oh!" cried Dixie in surprise. "It's Mr. Jinks." And they both ran off as fast as they could.

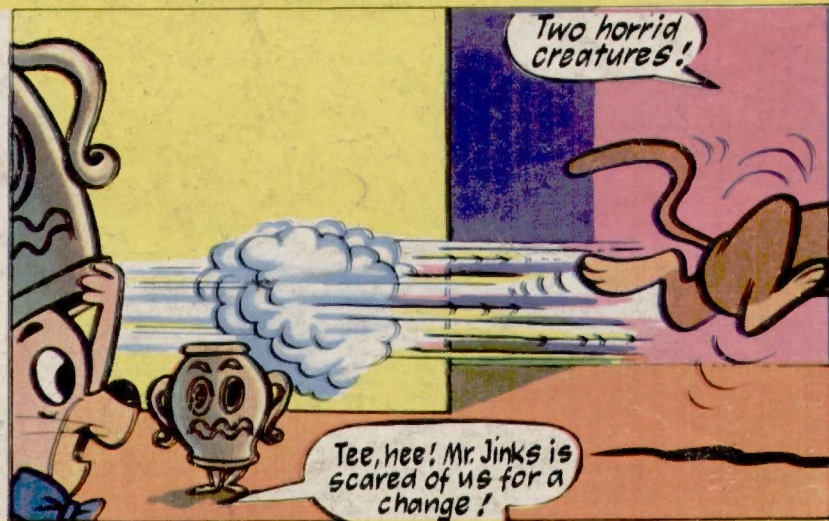

3. They both had to run fast to get away from Mr. Jinks. Round the corner and into the sitting room they rushed with Mr. Jinks running hard behind them. "How can we dodge Mr. Jinks?" wondered Dixie, who was sure they would be caught. But Pixie had an idea.

4. "Quick!" Pixie cried. "Let us climb up the table cloth and on to the table. Mr. Jinks won't spot us up there!" Pixie jumped as high as he could and clutched at the table-cloth to climb it. But, oh dear! His weight was too much and the cloth started to slip.

5. Plip! Plop! There were two lovely flower-pots standing on that table. When the table-cloth slipped down, the pots slipped down, too. They fell right down over the heads of our two little mousey chums! Then just at that moment, Mr. Jinks appeared.

6. "Mee-yow!" cried Mr. Jinks in alarm. "Whatever are those two horrid-faced creatures I can see? They are not meeces!" And he turned-tail and fled as fast as he could. Those flower vases looked like big, ugly faces upside-down! Pixie and Dixie didn't see him again for the rest of the day.